Apartments, Towers Among Issues Facing Planners

By Sue Aucella Deacon

"Mother-in-law" apartments, a buffer zone between industries and neighboring homes, and towers are among the issues that could be addressed in proposed zoning bylaw amendments at the annual town meeting, the Zoning Board of Appeals chairman told the planning board Tuesday night.

ZBA Chairman Wesley Whitney explained that the demand to create "mother-in-law" apartments within single-family homes seems to be increasing, presenting a problem to the board of appeals because such apartments "are not addressed in the town's zoning bylaw."

The term is used to describe a separate living unit, including a kitchen and bathroom, set up within a home, usually to accommodate an elderly or infirm relative. This arrangement is attractive to many families because it keeps a relative close at hand, while preserving the in-

Dartmouth Dean Named Headmaster At Academy

Donald W. McNemar

Donald W. McNemar, 38, Associate Dean of the Faculty for Social Sciences at Dartmouth College, has been elected Headmaster of Phillips Academy, Andover, it was announced today.

McNemar will take office in July at the 203-year-old, independent coeducational academy, succeeding Theodore Ryland Sizer, who has held the position since 1972. Last July, Sizer announced his plans to leave Andover in June, 1981, to lead a study of American high schools.

Donald H. McLean, Jr., president of the Phillips Academy Board of Trustees, in making the announcement commented: "We are most enthusiastic about the election of Donald McNemar. He has a deep concern for the education and growth of adolescents. He and Mrs. McNemar understand the residential life of education through their three years as dean-in-residence for 300 Dartmouth students. He has had significant managerial experience through his current responsibility for the Social Science Division, which embraces anthropology, economics, education, government, history, psychology and sociology. He is an able teacher. He has shown superb leadership both with the faculty of the Social Science Division and with a committee now planning an important memorial project at Dartmouth. And he has a genuine zest for education."

"His talents, leadership ability and concern for the wise management educational

Greetings!

Academy Honors A Noted Alumnus

Vice President-elect George Bush was accorded Phillips Academy's highest honor for public service with the presentation of the Claude Moore Fuess medal last Saturday morning.

Close to 2,600 people jammed into Case Memorial Cage for the presentation, the highlight of Bush's three hour visit back to the campus from where he graduated in 1942.

Bush delivered a short address which was both lighthearted and serious as he told students of the importance of public service.

Noting a recent book which is satirical of preparatory school life, Bush informed the audience that the publication had caused him to remove the alligator from the side of his plane, a reference to a trademark on clothing popular among prep school students.

In a serious tone, Bush advised the students that they must be prepared to make personal sacrifices in public service, noting a public servant is public property.

He said that as prep school graduates they must be prepared to take some flak after graduation, but added, "if you don't or can't take the flak, you have surrendered."

He asked that they make efforts to effect change in the country and the world, in lifestyles, in medicine, and the arts.

Bush said the incoming administration hopefully would make a commitment to young people seeking public service.

Of that new administration which takes

Haggetts Ice Surface Not Safe

Haggetts Pond is not safe for ice fishing, snow touring or other use.

Town of Public Works Robert McQuade said this week that the constant flow in the pond, due to expansion and contraction of the ice surface, as well as a level in some areas of the pond is constantly being drained and the pond and also pumped into the town's main reservoir from the water treatment plant which causes the dangerous ice condition.

McQuade warns that while current weather conditions and appearance of the ice surface would lead one to believe that Haggetts would be a good winter recreation area, just the opposite is true.

Snowmobiling is banned from the pond completely.

McCracken's Changes Manager

McCracken's Liquors and Wines, 144 Poor St., now has a new manager, with the selectmen's approval: Stephen Bucu of Salem, will replace his brother, Robert Bucu, as manager of the liquor store, effective immediately.

Following a Dec. 1 public hearing on alleged license violation at McCracken's, Stephen Bucu told selectmen he hoped the change in management would improve McCracken's relationship with town officials. He explained that Robert's "abrasiveness" had sometimes complicated the license-holder's dealings with the town.

As a result of that hearing, the selectmen voted to suspend the package store license for 20 working days, after finding that a McCracken's clerk sold a bottle of wine to a minor on June 30.

McCracken's will appeal that decision before the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission (ABCC) on Monday, Jan. 26.

The selectmen consider the June 30 incident to be McCracken's third offense since February, 1978.

Cohen Wants More Aid For Towns

Representative Gerald Cohen would like to see more state aid going to Massachusetts cities and towns — which would be helpful in that Proposition 2½ has made a reality — and will increase legislation this year that would allow increased aid. The legislation involves a new formula Cohen has devised for determining state aid to municipalities, the town manager reported to the selectmen Monday night.

If the lawmakers vote in favor of Cohen's proposal, the state would have less claim to new revenues, with those revenues instead used to help increase local aid funds.

Open House At Vale Sunday

Ballardvale residents will celebrate the opening of a new neighborhood library in the Corner Cup building with an open house, 4 p.m. on Sunday. Town officials have been invited to attend.

Neighborhood residents donated time to help renovate the interior of the building, which will be donated from owner John McCoy at $300 per month for at least one year. The future of the branch depends in part on how town officials work out the budget problems posed by Proposition 2½.

The library replaces the branch in the Ballardvale Community Center, which has been closed for nearly a year because it is unsound. The building is slated for demolition this year.

Singers To Hold Open House

The Greater Lawrence Chapter of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., Inc. (The Townsmen) will be holding an open house on Jan. 20 for the benefit of local men who think they might enjoy an evening of singing, hearing and partaking in (if they so desire) the working of four part harmony in the old Barbershop Quartet tradition. Men of all ages are welcome to come for an evening of fun and singing.

The open house will be held at 8 p.m. at West Elementary School on Beacon Street in Andover. (From Route 93, take Route 133 East, turn left at second light. From Route 28, take Route 133 West, turn right at first light).

Galen, a physician in ancient Rome, prepared a cosmetic almost identical to modern cold cream.

On Dean's List

Janet Ruth Williams, a freshman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams of Washington Ave., Andover, was included on the recently released First Semester Dean's List of Virginia Intermont College, Bristol, Va. To be named to the Dean's List, the student must have earned at least a 3.5 average.

Increases Awarded School Personnel

The school committee last week voted pay increases for two members of the business office, and instituted a subcommittee to study the central office staff, with an eye toward next year's budget.

Nancy Kullman, accountant, was granted $18,000 a year, retroactive to July 1, and Mark Ruggiero, programmer/analyst, $17,000 a year, also retroactive to July 1.

Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert said that both had been hired with the understanding that they would be reviewed in six months and that their pay would then be changed accordingly.

However, he said, "even at this rate" the programmer's pay was "not as competitive as it should be."

He noted that any programmer/analyst fresh out of school would be getting about $20,000, and that Ruggiero "also had a specialty in the kind of software we're talking about."

Committeeman Joseph Finn expressed concern that the pay was not realistic, and that Ruggiero might hold onto the job for a few months, "get really into it," and then when he was at a point he could really contribute, "move on to greener pastures."

Finn suggested that Seifert tell the employee that he could anticipate an adjustment in the near term that would reflect his "contribution to the system."

Finn volunteered for the subcommittee, and Chairman Elaine Viehmann also appointed Donald Robb, who had been involved with a similar subgroup.

In other personnel action, the committee accepted the resignation of Maureen Wood, noontime supervisor at Sanborn School since Oct. 6, 1980; and approved a childbearing leave of absence for Kathryn Kilroy, learning disabilities teacher/tutor at Shawsheen School, from approximately March 16 to the end of the school year.

The committee appointed Janet Karamanogian of Salem, N.H., a teacher aide for the math department and department heads at West Jr. High, at $3.35 an hour, Step 1 on the aide scale; and Barbara Sharrow of Andover, noontime supervisor at Sanborn, at $5.36 a day.

They also named Kathleen Mohan cheerleader coach at East Jr. High for the winter season, at a stipend of $234.50, and Ellen Tisbert, the same at West Jr. High, for $187.50.

Hospital Visits Are Limited

Until the high incidence of the flu drops off in the Greater Lawrence Community, measures curtailing the number of visitors to Bon Secours and Lawrence General Hospitals will go into effect immediately.

Visitors will be limited to immediate family members, and children under 12 will not be permitted to visit at all.

According to hospital officials, these temporary measures have been instituted to safeguard both the patients and visitors themselves, from any chance of cross-infection. Administrators are also requesting that all visitors, before entering the facility, make certain they are not feeling or showing signs of possible flu symptoms, and that they keep their visits as brief as possible.

At Lawrence General Hospital, Visitation, a television-telephone communication system is available between the lobby and patient rooms so families can be in contact.

Innovations For AIM

Adventures In Music announces new innovations for its final concert of the year, "Beethoven Lives." Each year, AIM has given student composers, musicians and dancers the opportunity to work with their professional counterparts. This year, in addition, AIM is adding piano, violin and vocal soloists.

The concert this year is a ballet-drama which takes place in Vienna in the home of an 1800's aristocrat. Invited guests will include lords and ladies portrayed by trained dancers of high school age and country gentlefolk selected from elementary students who do not need prior dance training. AIM's special guest will be Miss Kathy Murphy of the Boston Repertory Ballet.

The dancers will be choreographed by Lois Hoffman. Ms. Hoffman holds a Theatre Arts degree from N.Y.U. and the University of California at Berkley. She is best known for her work on PBS-TV's "Zoom." She danced last season with the Opera Company of Boston and has served on the faculty of the Boston Conservatory of Music and the Dance In The Mountains Camp in Colorado.

Auditions for senior and junior high musicians and singers will be held on Sunday, Jan. 25. The piano soloist will perform "Rage Over A Lost Penny" by Beethoven and the vocalists will sing Irish and Scot Folksongs set to music by Beethoven at the concert. The violinist must prepare "Four Comic Dances" by Schubert for the audition. For an appointment or further information, contact Mrs. David Workman.

Andover children in grades 3-6 may audition at Reading's Birch Meadow School on Thursday, Feb. 5, from 3:30 - 5:30 p.m. Snow date is Saturday, Feb. 7, 10 - 12 p.m. It is not necessary for these younger students to have previous training in dance, but natural aptitude and cooperative attitudes will be requisites. For further information, contact Mrs. Workman.

Vale Branch Opens Sunday

THE TOWNSMAN, JANUARY 15, 1981

"Ballardvale is anxious to have greater library privileges and has asked for a ranch. This, of course, involves considerable expense. . . . Their request, however, should receive due consideration in our plans for the future, for there are more people from that vicinity who borrow books than from any of the other outlying sections of the town." (Excerpted from the 1911 Town Report).

The new Ballardvale Branch Library at 95 Andover St., Ballardvale, will officially open on Sunday, Jan. 18, with an Open House from 2 - 4 p.m., hosted by the trustees of Memorial Hall Library. Townspeople are invited to visit the new storefront location of the branch library, view the updated book collection, and enjoy refreshments provided by the Ballardvale Village Improvement Society.

The library has been closed since last February when the Community Center building in which it had been located since 1913 was condemned due to a crumbling foundation. Ballardvale residents have worked diligently with the town manager, selectmen, and library staff to maintain library services for the Vale. These services date back to 1878 when J. Putnam Bradlee, proprietor of the Ballardvale Mill, opened his home and private library collection to the community.

The 1913 town report indicates there were 693 volumes available for borrowing when the branch originally opened. By 1936 the branch had a collection of 3200 books. The new branch will open with an up-to-date collection of approximately 4,000 titles which will be composed of many paperbacks and fiction in current demand. Children's books, magazines, travel maps and local newspapers will also be available.

The branch will be open Mondays and Thursday, 2 - 5 p.m. and 6 - 8 p.m. Mrs. Ruth Sharpe continues as the branch librarian with Carolyn Kelly as page.

While the new library branch is far more appealing with a more accessible location and better parking for patrons, its future is clouded due to expected budget cutbacks. Circulation figures will be the key to its continued existence and Ruth Sharpe and residents of the Vale hope all townspeople will find the Ballardvale branch a valuable resource to be used often.

Planner Input Asked By Zoning Board

Members of the Zoning Board of Appeals sometimes feel as though they're making their decisions in a vacuum, the ZBA chairman told the Planning Board Tuesday night, asking that board for more input into some zoning board cases.

Zoning Board Chairman Wesley Whitney explained to the planners that in past years, it was "customary" for a planning board member to appear at every ZBA hearing and offer a planning board recommendation on the case at hand.

That practice was discontinued two or three years ago because town counsel advised that the Planning Board might be overstepping its legal authority by making recommendations at public hearings, he said.

Planners

dependence of both the relative and the larger family unit, Whitney said.

"We only get a few of these requests a year," he explained, "but it's really troublesome because there's nothing in the zoning bylaw that covers it. However, we have granted a number of them over the years."

Whitney suggested that a possible solution might be to "take it out of the realm of a variance (from the zoning bylaw), and make it a special permit process."

Rhys Kear, director of Community Planning and Development, told the planners that his staff is working on an amendment that would deal with mother-in-law apartments, and will present it to the planning board at a future meeting.

The ZBA chairman recommended that the permits should be issued for no more than five years, requiring them to be renewed after that time period. This would help insure that the apartment was still being used by a relative, and not being rented out.

"The idea is to allow this for humanitarian reasons," Whitney explained. "It's not so that somebody can make a few bucks by renting out an apartment over his garage."

An existing bylaw that requires a 300-foot buffer zone between an industrial building and an abutting home should also be amended, Whitney told the planners. He suggested that the requirement be abolished, "just to get it on the table, and see if the town wants this buffer zone or not."

"But it does seem to me that from time to time, it would be helpful if the Planning Board at least expressed some thoughts on certain matters before the Board of Appeals," Whitney suggested.

ZBA members are not always comfortable making their decisions "with no guidance from town officials," he explained, citing as an "excellent" example a recent hearing on a petition from MacDonald's for a variance to add a drive-in window to the North Main Street restaurant.

The proponents of the petition, representing MacDonald's, attended the hearing, along with one neighboring couple who oppose the petition, "and that was it," Whitney said. "Other than that, not a living soul came."

Planner David Gravalles, acting as chairman in the absence of chairman Paul Teplitz and vice chairman Frank McBride, said he agreed with town counsel that the Planning Board should not "invade your appeals function."

But he indicated that the planners do informally review the zoning board's agenda during their own meetings, and could pass along thoughts on issues they are concerned with through Rhys Kear, director of Community Development and Planning

"It might help us to help you if you flag the issues that you think are the hot ones on your docket," Gravalles suggested.

Whitney agreed that increased communications through Kear, who works closely with both boards, could solve the problem. However, he added that a planning board representative may wish to attend some board of appeals hearings.

Planning Board input would most often be required on cases where petitioners are seeking special permits, rather than variances to zoning bylaws, he explained.

office next week, the vice president-elect said it could not offer utopia immediately, but that change would be forthcoming to meet the challenges of a new decade, with world hunger, national security, emerging third world nations, making the period ahead one of the most difficult in the history of the country.

The academy's most distinguished alumnus was introduced by Howard Lebowitz, Andover senior, president of the student body at PA. His brief introductory remarks were well-received by the audience, as he offered some anecdotes about Bush's life at the academy.

Lebowitz introduced Donald H. McLean, Jr., president of the academy trustees, who presented the Fuess medal to Bush.

The award is named for the late headmaster of the academy who was head of the school when Bush was a student, and the award recipient made reference to discipline, among other Fuess attributes during his talk.

Bush began his visit to the campus with a reception at Headmaster Theodore R. Sizer's house, then walked with his wife, Barbara, and faculty members, surrounded by secret service, past the bell tower to Case cage.

Following the ceremonies, the vice president-elect greeted hundreds of alumni, students, faculty and townspeople at a reception in the gymnasium.

He concluded his visit with a box lunch with the members of the senior class.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — January 1906

The Punchard high school hockey team and Johnson high team are scheduled to play on Lake Cochichewick this afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Conroy were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Morris of Boston on Tuesday. They enjoyed an automobile ride with their hosts through the suburbs of the city.

Gustave Lundgren, son of Mrs. Martha Lundgren of Whittier street, is to sever his connection with Tyer Rubber Company this week and will leave in a few days for New York, where he will be employed by his uncle. On Wednesday noon he was presented with a fine dress suit case by the young ladies of William McTernan's room, where he had been at work.

A number of neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brown gathered at their home on Salem street one night recently and were entertained by Charles L. Carpenter, who gave them a very interesting talk on the work going on at the Panama Canal. Mr. Carpenter, who is a civil engineer employed in the construction of the great water way, is thoroughly acquainted with the project and he told many interesting facts about the work that were unknown before to the listeners.

The Rev. Father Locke has been removed to the large St. Augustine's church of Philadelphia, Pa. He will be succeeded by the Rev. Father Morrison. Father Locke, by his frank sympathetic manner had completely won the hearts of his parishioners in Ballardvale and Wilmington. His many friends regret his departure, but all unite in wishing him a God Speed.

50 Years Ago — January 1931

Friday, Feb. 13, the last Friday before Lent was selected as the date for the sixth annual concert and ball of the Andover

Police Relief at the meeting of the association held Monday night in the police station. Traffic Officer John Deyermund was again chosen to head the committee on arrangements.

Four streets have been set aside for coasting purposes. They are Bartlett street from Wheeler street to Punchard ave.; Phillips street, Corbett street in Shawsheen Village and Red Spring Road in Abbot Village. Special Police officers are on duty while the children are enjoying coasting.

On Dec. 21 Miss Doris Newton of Andover, Miss Margaret Riddon of Brookline with Guide George Morrey of Hart's Location, N.H., were successful in reaching the summit of Mount Washington. The trip to the summit house and back was made in eight hours over ice and snow drifts. The weather conditions were perfect.

The Finance Committee will hold stated meetings each Thursday evening at eight o'clock at the Town house during the month of January. As in past years, a schedule of assignments has been prepared in order that each Department of our town government may present its budget for considerations.

A copy of the Lovejoy Genealogy, especially recording the American descendants and the English ancestry of John Lovejoy (1622 - 1690) of Andover and of Joseph Lovejoy (1684 - 1748) of Prince George County, Maryland, but also embracing all known data on other persons bearing the Lovejoy name, carefully compiled and published by Major Clarence Earle Lovejoy, has recently been presented by him to the Memorial Hall Library.

25 Years Ago — January 1956

The Shawsheen Mills will be sold within a week. That specific statement to the Townsman came from L. Plowman, industrial agent for Textron-American, owners of the property. He said there are three firms interested in buying the property — "and they'll all be good for Andover."

Town officials have unanimously agreed to "stick with" the recommendations of the Industrial Development Committee that some 1900 acres be rezoned for industry. That decision was reached Saturday morning at a meeting of the committee, the board of selectmen and the planning board.

A tentative 1956 school department budget of $695,357 has been discussed with members of the Finance Committee. That figure includes a $200 increase for teachers and increases for janitors and other personnel. It is $87,365 in excess of last year's budget or about 14 percent higher.

Two scholarships will be available from the Andover Service Men's Memorial Scholarship fund in 1956. And they need not be given to graduates of Punchard. Wallace M. Haselton, executive vice president of the Andover National Bank, which acts as trustee of the fund, said this week. Rather, he pointed out, the children of Andover veterans who served between Sept. 15, 1940 up to and including July 25, 1947, receive preference wherever they live and go to school.

Gleason street is a sub-division. Chairman Eugene A. Bernardin, Jr., told the Townsman this week the planning board will refuse to change its position on that street. They have so far ruled that the street is a sub-division as advised by town counsel.

The school committee reelected Robert McIntyre as head football coach for 1956 at its meeting Tuesday night. He was also given a salary increase of $200 to a $1000 total. He did not receive a requested contract for five years.

10 Years Ago — January 1971

North Andover resident, Joseph D'Angelo, has received the 25-Year Award of Merit sponsored by the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials (AASHTO) for his work at the Massachusetts Department of Public Works. Mass. DPW Commissioner Dean P. Amidon congratulated D'Angelo for his dedication during a December presentation at the department's Boston headquarters.

Amidon presented D'Angelo with the AASHTO 25-year silver pin and a certificate commending him for "such long and faithful service." D'Angelo, a 35-year department employee, presently serves as design engineer at the Boston office. He is a 1943 graduate from the University of Rhode Island.

Moose come out of the woods to be milked in response to morning bugle at Kostroma, near Moscow, the Massachusetts Audubon Society says. They give about six quarts, and the milk is five times richer in protein and fat than cow's milk. Life in a herd is the most difficult aspect of domestication for a moose.

Foam Fire Contained

Andover firefighters spent a couple of hours Monday night extinguishing a plastic foam fire at the General Service Foam Fire in Lowell Junction.

Firefighters were called to GSF at about 5 p.m. where a fire had started in the "bun room," a storage area for the foam bales. Deputy Chief Harold Hayes listed the cause of the fire as "an endothermic reaction" within the foam. About 12 bales were lost in the fire which was contained to the one room, assisted by the sprinkler system.

$550,000 and which the townspeople have been paying interest on with no physical evidence of accomplishment. Their plan as unanimously approved is to take $200,000 of the total and put an addition on the existing building.

In compliance with public requests and ecology minded people in the community, the public works department has been sanding and salting streets and sidewalks conservatively this winter. Town Manager J. Maynard Austin said this week that while winter weather has been more than usual this year, the public works department has been sanding and salting only as public safety considerations dictate.

The public works department will not be picking up discarded Christmas trees. That practice was abandoned a year ago. Both Town Manager J. Maynard Austin and Public Works Director Robert McQuade agree that the practicing of picking up the trees is impractical from a standpoint of manpower and time.

Phillips Academy's non-profit radio station, WPA-FM, will inaugurate a weekly program this Sunday evening, devoted exclusively to Andover town affairs. On "Andover Roundtable" a panel of speakers, including the Townsman editor, will discuss town affairs with a different Andover public figure each week.

Next fall all Andover elementary school students will be in a new math program while. While Shawsheen and some Doherty school math classes will pilot the Individually Prescribed Instruction (I.P.I.) math program in an experiment in truly individualized instruction, the rest of the elementary system will put all pupils into a new continuous progress math program.

Photography. What is the state of the art as we pass into the 80s? For the Addison Gallery of American Art, guest curator, Kelly Wise, has asked that question of 18 established contemporary photographers.

Chosen by Mr. Wise and curator of photography, James Sheldon, these photographers include Thomas Barrow, Carl Chiarenza, Robert Cumming, Judy Dater, Robert Fichter, Ralph Gibson, Robert Heineken, Joseph Jachna, Harold Jones, Max Kozloff, Gary Metz, Duane Michals, Bea Nettles, Anne Noggle, Eugene Richards, Brent Sikkema, Eve Sonneman and Jerry Uelsmann.

Each photographer has been asked to comment upon a host of quotes and categories of interest as well as to offer insightful observations from the context of his body of work. Collectively, the commentary, edited by Mr. Wise, becomes a provocative assertion about the state of photography today. In particular, their remarks are addressed to elitism and photography, the frontier, sacred cows, recent trends, New York and the gallery scene, provenance and derivation, the relationship of photography to other media, the role of the audience, curatorial and museum influence, signature in the work of a photographer, the disparities between color and black and white, the photograph as idea, and the vital dialogue inherent in a photograph between content and form. In addition to the commentary, each photographer is represented by 6 to 10 of his recent images.

Phot Facts And Opinions will be staged at the Addison Gallery of American Art on the campus of Phillips Academy, Andover, through Feb. 8. Gallery hours:

Tuesday-Saturday from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m.;
Sundays 2:30 - 5 p.m. The gallery is open free to the public.

WITH AN INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT THIS WOULD HAVE BEEN A PRETTIER PICTURE.

"The idea of retiring without a suitable retirement plan is not a pretty picture either. Especially when you realize Social Security won't be enough. Fortunately, it doesn't HAVE to be like this. Stop in any office of the Valley Bank and get the entire picture.

Until April 15th, the Federal Government lets you deposit, tax free, $1,500 ($1,750 for two) into a Valley Bank Individual Retirement Account if your place of employment doesn't have a qualified pension plan.

For the self-employed, deposit as much as $7,500 a year into a Keogh Plan. Still tax deductible this year!

Now you have a choice for retirement. You can chance it to Social Security or you can take things into your own hands with an Individual Retirement Account or Keogh Plan. Both sound investments for your future.

Stop in any office of The Valley Bank for more details on Individual Retirement Accounts or Keogh Plans - and you'll retire with a smile on your face."

Saint Robert's Country Day School in Andover recently celebrated its 11th birthday. Students, parents and siblings attended the "It's A Small World" party complete with movies and birthday cake. Pastor Dennis Kohl of Faith Lutheran Church was guest speaker along with Rev. Frederick J. Collins, executive director of the school, and Helen Keegan, education director.

Saint Robert's Country Day School is a semi-cooperative nursery school. The cooperative feature means, specifically, that the parents help administer the school. The benefits of being a cooperative are partly administrative, and in a large part, educational. Parents exert efforts for their child's first school, and the child benefits from the sense of continuity between home and school.

Registration for the 1981-82 school year will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 21, between 9-11 a.m. On this day, parents and children are invited to visit the school located at 198 Haggets Pond Road, and ask questions about the school's program.

Teachers and Parent Board members will be there to provide information. The Mini-nursery program (Tuesday and Thursday) is for children who will be three years old by Aug. 31. Regular Nursery (Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday) children must be four years old by Sept. 1. Maxi-nursery (Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday) is for children who will be five by Feb. 28. Any questions about registration should be directed to registrar Shirley Winslow.

Members of the Andover High School basketball team opened their homes and hearts to athletes from Canada last week. It has been over a year in the making, but finally, through the efforts of many, a Canadian basketball team came to play the Andover High School basketball team.

During the weekend of Jan. 9, the basketball team from Billings High School in Quebec, Canada, came to share not only their skill, but also their culture. The Billings basketball team, which has a record of 18-5 at this point in their season, played Andover High School on Friday night and North Andover High School on Saturday night.

On Friday night, before the game, the Canadian team received Andover t-shirts, donated by George Spanos, faculty manager of the school store. On Saturday night, the North Andover team presented the visitors with pins graciously donated by David McDonald, president of the Ad King Company in Andover. Senior Karine Evans opened the ceremonies with the singing of both the American and Canadian National Anthems.

Friday night, after the game, both teams gathered at a team member's home and watched cable television. Saturday morning the team got up early and went into Boston. Escorted by varsity coach Wilbur Hixon, sophomore coach Edward Kelly, and many of the Andover team members, the visitors toured the Aquarium, and spent a large portion of the day browsing around Quincy Market. Saturday night, after the game against North Andover, the Canadians were invited to a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. DeShields. There the young people were entertained with food, jokes, and dancing.

As Coach Hixon states, "It was a very enjoyable weekend, not only for the guests, but also for the hosts. As well as being a worthwhile athletic experience, it was also a very educational experience."

Some of the players comments were, "It was a learning experience for all. They got to know about our culture and what we do in our spare time. We, in turn, learned about the Canadian culture. It seemed as though some of them didn't want to leave. We will be glad to go up there next year."

At this point, plans are being formulated for the Andover High School team to visit Canada next winter and play basketball. Juniors and sophomores are eagerly anticipating traveling to Canada.

WESTern Roundup

By Kathy Mulvey and Mary Driscoll

The freshman boys' basketball team participated in two down-to-the-wire contests this past week. In the first game, WJH challenged the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High School at the Voke. Mark Nardone led the scoring, accounting for 11 of West's 36 points. In the closing seconds, with the Voke clinging to a one-point lead, Fran McGranaghan tipped a jump ball to Billy Vickers. From outside the circle, he heaved the ball in desperation at the hoop. It slipped through the net, giving West a sweet 36-35 victory. On Saturday morning, in a home game, West nipped East by a score of 27-26. Mark Nardone again scored 11 points to head the scoring.

The eighth grade boys' basketball team has been very successful in recent weeks, winning three games in as many contests. On Dec. 16, they crushed West Wilmington, 33-12. They then defeated Lawrence Magnet by a score of 53-39 three days later. Last Friday, the team was victorious over Oliver (Lawrence), piling up 53 points compared to only 23 for their opponents.

In a meet held last Thursday in Wilmington, the WJH Math team placed second among the six participating schools. Jeff Kuo scored more points than any other seventh grader taking part in the competition, while Kathy Mulvey was the high scorer among ninth graders.

A French Club has been established here, giving interested students an opportunity to improve their knowledge of the language. The group is under the supervision of Miss Humlak.

Miss McGann Awarded Scholarship

Judeth K. McGann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGann of Wolcott Avenue in Andover, is the recipient of an Alumni Association Scholarship at the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Judeth, who was executive editor of the Phillipian sports page, graduated from Phillips Academy in 1979. While there, she was captain of the varsity soccer squad and a member of both the varsity basketball and lacrosse teams. In addition, she received the Century III Leadership Award and senior honors in biology.

Currently a sophomore at Johns Hopkins, Judeth is majoring in biology. She is a member of the Orientation Committee, the Sailing Club, and the varsity basketball and lacrosse teams.

This year, the Alumni Association, which represents a significant source of financial support for students attending Johns Hopkins, has contributed ninety thousand dollars in scholarship aid.

Andover Students Among Who's Who

Diane M. Raye and Kevin M. Lynch of Andover are two of 38 juniors and seniors at Merrimack College who have been selected to appear in the 1980-81 edition of "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

The "Who's who" directory has appeared annually since 1934, providing a national basis of recognition of outstanding campus leaders. Students represented in the directory are selected by committees on their campuses.

The criteria for a student's selection includes academic achievement, participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, citizenship, service to the school, and future promise.

Ms. Raye, a senior management major, is the daughter of Mrs. Josephine Raye, 8 Bowdoin Road.

The current editor of the Merrimack

College yearbook, she has been very active in college activities. She was a resident assistant in the dormitories and she has served on various committees including the Planning Committee for the Future Goals of Merrimack College. She was one of only two students on that committee.

A member of the Young Republicans Club of Massachusetts, she was invited to attend this year's presidential inauguration in Washington, D.C.

A graduate of Our Lady of Nazareth Academy in Wakefield, she aspires to a career as a management consultant.

A senior marketing major, Kevin M. Lynch, is the president of Delta Phi Kappa fraternity. He is the son of Joseph and Jean Lynch, 46 Morton St.

Lynch has served on various college committees and he has been actively involved in the organization of campus events. This year he was chairman of two flea markets presented by the senior class.

A member of Save the Wildlife Committee and a participant in the Red Cross Bloodmobile activities, he plans a career in business.

He is a 1977 graduate of Andover High School.

Completes Fellowship At Dartmouth

Martha Viehmann, a Dartmouth College sophomore, from Andover, has just completed a 10-week Tucker Fellowship that enabled her to work in Manchester, N.H., with victims of battery and rape.

Ms. Viehmann served the Women's Crisis Service of the Manchester YWCA as a liaison with local hospitals and the police department to help improve procedures employed in response to incidents of rape and battering.

The Tucker Fellowship program, sponsored by the Tucker Foundation at Dartmouth, enables students to express their commitment to society by apprenticing themselves to an agency or organization of their choice which is engaged in constructive social service. Through a self-designed service project, Fellows confront complex social issues and problems, ranging from battered women to world hunger, and try to make a positive difference. A professional within the agency works with the Fellow to help guide the project and help accomplish its goals. A stipend is granted to each Fellow over the 10-week period of a college term according to need and the special demands of the project.

Ms. Viehmann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Viehmann of 35 Lucerne Drive, Andover. A sophomore at the college, she was elected to the Common Ground Governing Board in the winter of 1980. That winter, she also received a citation for outstanding academic achievement in Native American Studies.

Part-Time Studies Program

A new daytime part-time studies program will be inaugurated beginning in January at Northern Essex Community College, Haverhill. This program for adults includes a variety of college courses which meet once each week, generally from 9 to 11:45 a.m. or 12 to 2:45 p.m. Saturday morning classes as well as a special Tuesday/Thursday schedule, which includes the popular "20th Century Women In Film" course, are being offered for the first time.

Pack 100 Observes Holidays

The December meeting of Pack 100 was a holiday celebration. Den 4 presented a skit entitled "Santa's Bakeshop" with David Lucey as Santa, Jeff D'Urso as the baker, Billy McCann as "sniffer" and Gregory Shepard, Thomas DeBenedictis, Dennis Grogan, and John Benson as elves. Webelo David Sharrow then presented his impression of a Christmas doll.

Smoke signals (news of the dens) were given by Jay Flannelly, Stephen Devaney, Tommy DeBenedictis, Kurt McConville, John Pike, and Robert Devaney.

The presentation of awards was made to the following scouts: Athlete award to Brian Worcester, Randy Clark, David Sampson, and Robert Devaney; Silver arrow to Brooks Cutter; Bear badge to David Carnes and John Pike.

The evening ended with a gift exchange, carol singing and refreshments. Coming events for the scouts are a swim and pizza party and a trip to a Celtics game. The next pack meeting is Jan. 22.

All of the courses are taught by regular Day Division faculty members and all credit earned from these courses may be applied toward a degree at Northern Essex or transferred to another college. Courses offered include English Composition, Human Relations, Child Psychology and Business Finance.

Participants in the Part-Time Studies Program may elect to register for up to three courses. Admission to the program can be arranged through the Admissions Office at Northern Essex between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. any day Monday through Friday before Jan. 21. Presenting A Story

Pack 102 Has Busy Season

The Cub Scouts in Pack 102 had a busy holiday season. In November, the boys and their families visited Plymouth Plantation and saw how their ancestors lived and how they celebrated their first Thanksgiving. During that trip they also visited the Mayflower and Plymouth Rock. For the monthly pack meeting the boys put on a play about the early settlers and had a display table about the early Indians. In December, the boys and their families went to the Boston Garden and watched the Celtics play against the Dallas Mavericks. For the pack meeting, the boys worked on the theme, "Christmas Around the World," and the cub scouts displayed great talent in their presentations.

There was singing and musical recitals, and the guest of honor was Santa himself.

The boys took their dues for the month of December and made a contribution to the Eagle-Tribune Santa Fund to help others less fortunate.

January saw many of the boys climbing into an open sleigh for a trip through the woods, topped off with hot cider around a blazing campfire. Despite the sub-zero weather, everyone had a good time.

The highlight of the January pack meeting will be the annual Pinewood Derby where the boys will compete against each other with homemade derby cars. Watch for results of that competition to be announced.

Teacher, Mother Alters Her Vocation

By Sue Aucella Deacon

When Mary Ann Berger set out to find a job more than two years ago, she soon found herself greatly discouraged.

A former art teacher who had devoted herself to raising her four children for more than 20 years and no longer wished to teach, she was over-qualified for the minimum-wage jobs available to her. And besides, she recalls, "My pride was at stake."

Today Berger, an Andover resident for more than four years, has much to be proud of: She is a production coordinator at Honeywell, Inc., in Lawrence, a job she finds exciting and challenging as her responsibilities continue to grow.

How did a wife and mother who had worked only as a teacher and, briefly, as a secretary find herself in a management position, working with figures, material control, schedules and feasibility studies?

The downhearted job-seeker heard about a program that offered counseling, advice on job-hunting, and actual work experience to women entering the working world, and she decided, "That's for me," Berger says.

The nine-month program, called Continuum, was established in 1974 to meet the needs of women who, like Berger, wanted to enter or re-enter the job market, but lacked marketable skills.

After an orientation period that consists of vocational testing, counseling and workshops on writing resumes and fielding job interviews, the Newton-based program launches its students on two successive internships — supervised work experiences in private businesses or the public sector. Each student works four days a week on her internship, returning to the classroom for continuing support and job-hunt training.

Berger did not leap into the program without hesitation, however. For one thing, Continuum carries a $2,250 pricetag. "I had great misgivings about spending that money on myself," she explains. "I think most women tend to feel that way about themselves. If I had to spend $3,000 on my children, I'd think nothing of it."

But Berger was eager to work — "I had become very restless" — and her work experience left her little to fall back on: three months as a secretary in an advertising agency before she married, nine months with the Atomic Energy Commission in South Carolina, a year and a half as a part-time art teacher and a year as a full-time seventh-grade art teacher ("a disaster").

She had little interest in pursuing art as anything more than a hobby — in fact, Berger confesses, majoring in art as a student at Fontbonne College in St. Louis really had been her parents' idea.

"At that time, women did not major in business," she explains. "A woman could become a school teacher or a nurse — it was very limited. So I became a liberal arts major, and then I could do nothing with it."

So, after intensive questioning of an Andover acquaintance who had "graduated" from Continuum ("Was it really worth all that money?"), Berger plunged into the program in September, 1978.

"Continuum helped me to know myself, my strengths and weaknesses, through testing, counseling, and my two internships," she says enthusiastically. "It's really learning about yourself. After giving of myself to my children for so long, I said, it's time for me this year. This is my year."

Working with a counselor, Berger chose

her two "excellent" internships from Continuum's file of "hundreds" of businesses, based on her interest in business and finance. "I had always been interested in budgeting, both dollars and time. I'm almost fanatical about it — I hate to waste time."

Berger's first internship involved working with the assistant to the president of the Boston and Maine Railroad, which she recalls as a "demanding and very exciting" experience.

Her supervisor "treated me like a professional, and that set the tone for me. It built in confidence," she says. Berger spent most of her time in the Billerica office working with vice presidents as they planned their budgets, as well as reading contracts and completing feasibility studies. "It was all on a high level," she says, a heady experience for a long-time "proverbial housewife."

Following up on her successful experience with transportation, Berger chose as her second internship a position in the transportation division of Temple, Baker, Sloane, a management consulting firm in Lexington. There she exercised her newly-acquired assertiveness, Berger says.

"At first they had me doing clerical work, adding things up on a calculator. So I went to my supervisors and said, hey, I'm not paying $3,000 to sit at a calculator. Then they threw the book at me," she says, smiling.

In an ordinary situation, she might have "panicked," but as a Continuum student, she turned to her counselors for support, and they "guided me through it," Berger explains.

After completing that internship, which came to include reading litigation, developing case studies, and making recommendations to management, Berger felt confident that she was ready to test her wings: she decided to skip the third internship, which was at that time part of the Continuum program. (Based on Berger's experience, the school has since eliminated the third internship and substituted a "concentrated job search campaign" instead.)

Pulling together what she had learned about her own interests and about finding a job, in April, 1979, Berger sent out 12 letters and resumes, fine-tuned after each internship, offering her services as a volunteer. In the letter, she explained that she was interested in "finances, and material and inventory control."

Honeywell responded immediately, not to offer her an internship, Berger says, but a job as a coordinator in the materials control department. "Honeywell was looking for someone who showed initiative," she explains, and her letter showed her to have just that.

Honeywell's Lawrence plant specializes in refurbishing computers and accessory equipment.

Her first few months of on-the-job training were not easy, Berger admits. "The first months were just survival." But her Continuum training gave her the confidence to "know I could see it through," she says proudly. "I would have been very discouraged otherwise."

Since then, Berger's duties have been expanded to include work as a scheduler and analyst, as well as a coordinator. She sees that the raw materials for printed circuit boards, one part of the larger computer hardware, arrive on the production floor on schedule, so that the circuit boards are built on schedule.

This involves everything from ordering the materials to "following the flow of the material" every step of the way, from her telephone to the production floor.

"No two days are alike," she comments. And her favorite part of her job is that she "interfaces with so many people. That's one thing I learned from my first internship, that I probably wouldn't be happy working alone in an office."

Another enjoyable aspect of her job seems reminiscent of her days of "coaching and nagging" her children — that is, "sending memos asking why people aren't doing their jobs, saying, 'Why is this being done this way?'" she says with a grin. "That gives me the most pleasure."

And Berger has not stopped learning. She is now taking an industrial management course at Northern Essex Community College, through a time-release program at Honeywell, and she has attended planning seminars sponsored by the company.

She has also continued her involvement with Continuum by recently serving on a panel of speakers, and inviting women to her home to hear Continuum representatives describe the school.

The program was well worth the time and money she spent on it, Berger concludes. "It achieved its purpose — it got me in a satisfying, professional job, with pay and status as good or better than that of a teacher. I'm now part of the computer industry, which is exciting because it's constantly growing."

And it enabled her to say what may be the best thing anyone could hope to say about a job: "I'm still as excited about it now as I was the day I started."

Family Unit Opens at LGH

Lawrence General Hospital (LGH) opened a new total family centered maternal/child unit January 5. This means that rather than mothers and their babies being treated as separate entities, they will be responded to as a family unit.

The change will give mothers more say in the kind of maternity stay they have. Most of the baby's care will be given in the mother's room with the mother's participation so the mother and baby will get to know each other and feel comfortable together. "The other will get to know the baby's cry and what it means and become familiar with the baby's needs," explained Marilyn Kopriva, R.N., head nurse on the hospital's maternity floor.

On the other hand, if the mother prefers to take her baby back to the nursery for any reason, she can do so. There will be a nurse in the nursery at all times.

"A first day mother won't feel like doing as much as she will by her third or fourth day," pointed out Kathy Beans, R.N., head nurse for the nursery.

Fathers have unlimited visiting hours and, if they wish, can scrub and gown and participate in all infant care including bathing and diapering, Mrs. Kopriva said.

Other children may visit their mothers in the family waiting room, but only during visiting hours (2:30 - 4 p.m. and 7 - 8:30 p.m.). The babies can be seen in the nursery from 3:30 - 4 p.m. and 7:15 - 7:45 p.m.

Mothers will have free access to their babies at all times except visiting hours and between 10 p.m. and 8:30 or 9 a.m. (New mothers need their sleep, Mrs. Kopriva pointed out.)

Under the new unit the nurses on the current maternity and nursery units will combine forces and be known as maternal/child health nurses. The nurse will be assigned to care of both the mother and child in a particular family.

An expanded teaching program is being developed by the assistant head nurses on the units. Margaret Hanlon, R.N., and Virginia Weinhold, R.N. Topics will include infant care, physical and psychological aspects of motherhood, family planning, breast self-examination and breast feeding. Some of the teaching will be done in discussion groups and others will include films. The discussion sessions can also be used as a support group for the new mothers and they can discuss whatever they feel is important to them. The teaching sessions will be held three times a week from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the solarium on the unit. Mothers can either bring their babies or leave them in the nursery during the sessions.

In addition, there will be a lot of one-to-one teaching in the rooms which is one of the advantages of the new organization, Mrs. Kopriva explained.

"We want to offer mothers the best there is available. That is the whole purpose of the maternal/child unit," she added.

'own Meeting To Be Categorized This Year'

THE TOWNSMAN, JANUARY 15, 1981

The selectmen and finance committee agreed to call the 1981 annual town meeting in two sessions, with the first on January 26 for the consideration of non-monetary articles, and the second on June 1 for discussion of the budget and other monetary articles.

The schedule is designed to put off discussion of monetary articles for as long as possible, while town officials wait to see if the state legislature will make any changes in state aid funding to the town. Lawmakers could take such action in response to Proposition 2½.

However, "at this point in time, both the town and the schools are attempting to submit budget requests which comply with the requirements of Proposition 2½," Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark reported the selectmen last week, "as least as it as we are able to determine."

He added Monday night that he assumes the town will receive level funding in state aid.

The selectmen and FinComm Chairman John Byrne and member Ruth Dunbar agreed that non-monetary articles will be discussed on Tuesday, May 26, moving the budget out of its traditional spot as Article 1 on the warrant.

Discussion of non-monetary articles will be carried over to the following evening, if necessary.

necessary, Town Clerk Elden Salter said last week.

The meeting will then reconvene on Monday, June 1, for consideration of the budget ("the sacred cow," as Dunbar called it) and then special monetary articles.

Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark indicated that if a sufficient number of non-monetary articles are left over after the first session is concluded, they will be "interspersed" with the money articles to keep voter interest and attendance high during the second session.

Clark said the town meeting could become unusually complicated if voters want to approve monetary articles after the limits imposed by 2½ have been reached: "They would either have to show where the money (to fund the desired article) is going to come from, with user fees and charges, or reduce an article that has been previously voted. We could be going back and forth," he predicted.

The manager suggested that town officials assign priorities to all special articles, so that once the 2½ limit is reached, voters will know which articles are to be retained and which rescinded.

But when Byrne pointed out that trying to rescind private articles could lead to legal difficulties, Chairman James Abramson suggested that officials assign priorities to the town's special articles only.

"That way, the (articles) we least want, we can withdraw if we know we're going to be over 2½," he explained.

"We'll know going in if we'll be within 2½ or not. If we're over, we'll say so — and then let the town pick and choose what they want."

The split schedule calls for the publication of two warrants this spring — so that a warrant can be issued within 35 days of the March town election, as required by law — but only one finance committee report.

According to the schedule, April 13 is the

To Speak At West Sunday

Gabriel Fackre, Abbot Professor of Christian Theology at Andover Newton Theological School in Newton, will preach Sunday, Jan. 18, at 10:30 a.m., at West Parish Church of Andover. Dr. Fackre is the United Church of Christ's most distinguished theologian.

Dr. Fackre comes to West Parish Sunday to support and underscore the importance of a West Parish designed program of Lay Ordination. Seeing the program as historically significant, Dr. Fackre says, "For the first time in two thousand years of church history, West Parish is opening all the rites of the church to everyone. In this proposal a two thousand year injustice is being corrected." Recognizing the significance of this program, Andover Newton Theological School published it last Fall.

Dr. Fackre has authored 22 books with topics ranging from baptism, evangelism, futurism and secularism. He is now working on a multi-volume systematic treatment of the dimensions, history and importance of Christian theology. Producer of three films, he frequently writes for The Journal for the Scientific Study of Religion, Theology Today, The Christian Century, Christianity and Crises, The Journal of Current Social Issues, as well as the International Journal of Religious Education.

Dr. Fackre addresses many conferences and regional assemblies of the United Church of Christ, as well as the World Council of Churches. He has taught at Oxford and Cambridge Universities in England, and also at the University of Hawaii, San Francisco Theological Seminary and Union Theological Seminary.

The concept and program of Lay Ordination at West Parish is authored by the Diaconate Sub-committee on Lay Ordination and supported by the Board of Elders. Persons of the Diaconate creating the program are: Al Copeland, Donna

Gabriel Fackre

Ellsworth, Bonne Lewis, Don Nickerson and Len Perry. They worked with the Rev. Nancy M. Klassen, former West Parish Associate Minister and now Consultant in Lay Ministry.

Sunday, Dr. Fackre will preach and Rev. Klassen will lead. The sermon title is "Mobilizing the Ministries of Hope." Following worship, there will be a "talk-back" in the West Parish Fellowship Hall.

Salt Use Explained

No matter how much salt the town uses to treat slippery winter roads, some residents will be unhappy, the town manager told the selectmen Monday night.

One resident has written to the selectmen, complaining that the use of too much salt can pollute groundwater.

However, Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark pointed out that Andover "does not depend on groundwater for its water supply — although some individual residents might be dependent on it."

Selectman Susan Poore added that while one resident might worry about groundwater pollution, "someone who wraps himself around a telephone pole might have a different opinion," referring to the automobile accidents that could be caused by icy road conditions.

The manager explained that the town does not use "straight salt — except in places where the ice is really bad" — but instead spreads a mixture of salt and sand on town roadways.

"I get about an equal number of complaints that we put out too much salt, and that we put out not enough," Clark told the board.

He also suggested that Andover residents may have to adopt a philosophical attitude toward the dilemma: "It's a problem throughout New England," Clark commented.

Valley Republicans To Hold Fund-Raiser

Villiam E. Melahn, chairman of the Merrimack Valley Republican Committee, today announced a Republican fund-raiser to be held on Jan. 16, 1981 at 6 p.m. at the Sheraton Rolling Green in Andover. The purpose is to honor President-elect Reagan, and to raise funds for local committees of the Merrimack Valley Republican Committee.

The Merrimack Valley Republican Committee invites all interested persons, to contribute to the financial well-being of the Republican Party. Prominent Republicans will attend, including some potential candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and United States Senator in 1982.

According to Melahn, "The most serious problem facing the people of Massachusetts is the lack of a viable two-party system. In the last election 118 out of 200 Representative and Senate Seats were uncontested, which means many of our citizens were left with no choice in the election. Competition is the lifeblood of our political process.

The Merrimack Valley Republican Committee represents the efforts of concerned citizens who recognize the need of building up the structure of the Republican Party in Massachusetts and in the neighboring State of New Hampshire. This rebuilding must take place at the town and city levels.

The Committee intends to assist in locating and educating candidates in how to run for office. It will also aid those candidates who receive the nomination of the party by providing them with both financial assistance and with party workers.

Bush Returns To The Old School

Vice President-Elect George Bush returned to his alma mater last Saturday to receive the Claude Moore Fuess Award. Protective Screen Produced By Neighbors

By Sue Aucella Deacon

A series of early-morning break-ins in the Wildwood Road area, culminating in the vicious beating of Albert Dixon of 5 Ivy Lane on Dec. 8, has drawn residents together in a new spirit of neighborliness, which many hope will continue even after the memory of Dixon's attack fades.

"We are all very friendly people, but we go our separate ways," explains Phillip Cronin of 9 Ivy Lane, who took the first steps to unite Wildwood Road area residents by calling a neighborhood meeting on Dec. 15. "We all value our privacy, but it's been to such an extreme that we don't even know all of our neighbors."

That's begun to change during the past month, as residents now try to be more "aware of their neighbors — talk to them, and agree to watch out for each other" in their efforts to prevent further break-ins, Cronin says.

And last Wednesday night, a group of 25 residents representing each street in the neighborhood agreed to form a permanent Wildwood Neighborhood Association, to meet monthly, to write and distribute a monthly newsletter, and to continue working closely with the police department.

Cronin reports that seven homes in the Wildwood home area — a quiet, wooded neighborhood off South Main Street — have been broken into since early November; four of the break-ins happened between 1 and 6 a.m. The Dixon incident, the most recent, was the first where a homeowner was attacked.

The chilling sight of Dixon being carried from his home after the beating spurred Cronin to action, he says. He organized a meeting of Ivy Lane residents on the following night, and again on Dec. 11.

When Cronin enlisted Crime Officer Joseph Ouellette to speak at the Dec. 15 meeting, the neighborhood response was "overwhelming," he recalls: 130 residents appeared, and the meeting was moved from Cronin's living room to the sanctuary of the Faith Lutheran Church on South Main Street.

Out of those first meetings, a "core" group of 25 representatives was formed, Cronin explains. They have met twice and intend to meet monthly from now on. Working with Officer Ouellette as their liaison to the police department, these residents hope to keep their neighbors informed of what's happening in the area.

West Parish Nursery Registration

Registration for West Parish Nursery School will begin Jan. 22. Application forms will be available at the West Parish Church office. The office is located at 129 Reservation Road, and is open between the hours of 9 and 3. Enrollment is open to all boys and girls who will be four years old by Sept. 1. Any information about the school can be obtained from the chairman, Marilyn Gigliotti, 8 Samos Lane.

and to offer some "feedback" to the police as well.

They also plan to apply to the Andover Community Watch Committee for funding: that committee is administering a $10,000 gift donated anonymously to the town for use in crime prevention. "We have some ideas for using those funds," Cronin indicates.

Although the large Dec. 15 meeting grew fairly emotional ("People sat quietly for the first hour and 45 minutes, and then things mushroomed when someone asked Officer Ouellette to tell us about Dixon"), Cronin says the series of meetings have also left the residents with some practical advice.

"The major message is loud and clear," he explains. "Call the police. Even if it's small, even if you think it's crazy, even if it's 2 a.m. People are hesitant in calling the police, and they shouldn't be. The police want you to call. The police are looking to the community for cooperation, to be their eyes and ears."

Ouellette's second message is equally simple: "Be aware of your neighbors. Tell your neighbors your plans — collect their mail and newspapers when they go on vacation, shovel their snow."

In that spirit, the neighbors have started a "phone tree" and a car list, both suggested by the crime prevention officer. The phone tree means that a resident calls two neighbors to alert them to anything suspicious. Each of those neighbors then calls two more, and so on until everyone has been called.

The neighbors used this idea recently, Cronin says, when residents noticed someone lurking in the bushes on Ivy Lane. "Everybody was happy just because they knew it happened," he says. "Most people were not even aware that there had been six break-ins in the area before the Dixon incident."

The neighbors are also working on a car list, to identify the cars that belong in everyone's driveway. They hope this will make it easier for them to notice when a suspicious car is in the neighborhood, Cronin explained.

In addition, many neighbors have followed Ouellette's recommendation that they leave lights on at night, and install sturdier locks and alarm systems.

The core group has also come up with a few ideas for easing the fear and tension that have grown in the neighborhood. Cronin indicates — for instance, that youngsters avoid taking shortcuts through neighbors' backyards after 9 p.m., and that neighbors out walking at night carry flashlights to show they are not intruders.

The residents hope their new Wildwood Neighborhood Association will flourish; Cronin says the core group members are contemplating social functions, such as block parties, to help it grow.

"A single-issue organization is sort of doomed," he notes. "I feel very strongly that we've got to continue it, and we're looking at things to sustain it."

But for now, the neighbors' stand against further crime in their part of town seems strong enough to keep them united. As one Glen Cove Road resident, a member of the core group, explains, "If I sit back and do nothing, and the next fellow does nothing, it can happen again."

Shawsheen Proposed For CARD Program

Small businesses in Shawsheen Square may be spruced up a bit with some assistance from the state, in the form of Community Area Revitalization District (CARD) revenue bonds, according to Dr. Lawrence Spiegel, chairman of the Industrial Development Finance Authority (IDFA).

After several weeks of consideration, town officials plan to submit Shawsheen to the state as Andover's first CARD district, with Ballardvale and the central business district next in line, Spiegel said last week.

Shawsheen seems like the logical place to start, Spiegel said, because it is "a definable area, not a very big area, and it also has a magnificent citizens' group — people who are very aware of things and care."

Through the CARD program, the state offers revenue bonding, such as that long available to industries, to retail areas and associated residential areas — for instance, a storefront with apartments above it. The cost of the program to the town is minimal — "just paperwork," the chairman said.

Like industries, small businesses may apply for the revenue bonding through the IDFA, allowing them to "upgrade and improve" their buildings with low-cost loans, Spiegel explained. The program will enable the IDFA to "give potential help to commercial property-owners who want to help themselves."

"We're not talking about luxury boutiques," he emphasized. The CARD program was originally designed to help stop the spread of "urban blight" in cities.

Now that both cable television firms competing for Andover's 15-year franchise have agreed on a consultant to study their proposals, the long-awaited awarding of the license may be little more than a month away.

The town manager is negotiating the final details of the study with consulting firm Marlarkey Taylor and Associates of Washington, D.C., he told the selectmen Monday night.

Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark reported that he expects the firm to begin studying the proposals of Rollins Cablevision of Atlanta and Continental Cablevision of Lawrence early next month. The study should be completed within two weeks, he added.

Chairman James Abramson said the selectmen will plan to award the license during their Feb. 23 meeting and "get it over with. It's been dragged out long enough."

The cost of the two-week study, to be shared by the competing cable companies, is an estimated $14,000 to $16,000, the manager indicated. The consulting firm will charge $6,000 plus expenses as a day rate for a total of $7,000 to $8,000 per each proposal.

"The figure came in higher than we had anticipated," Clark told the board, because the consulting firm said it could not zero in on the financial aspects of the two proposals, but would have to review the entire proposals.

"Since all aspects of the applications are intertwined, it is impossible to give firm conclusions on financial matters if there are unanswered questions concerning the other areas, such as the technical capability of the plant, the cost of additional programming, ability to raise rates, etc.," Marlarkey Taylor Vice President of Finance Robert M. Jones wrote in a letter to the town manager.

"I am suggesting that an overall evaluation be made in order to obtain the most meaningful results," Jones continued in his letter. "We realize that this approach involves more time and cost, but our experience has indicated that both the applicants and evaluators are more comfortable with the results."

Continental, challenging Rollins' financial statement, suggested that a consultant be retained to study the financial statements of both companies in early November.

Rollins — the firm that received the recommendation of the Andover Cable Television Advisory Committee after a year-long study — objected to hiring a consultant because it would mean duplicating the advisory committee's work, and delay the awarding of the license.

Rollins later reluctantly agreed to share the cost of a consultant's fee, when the selectmen voted to retain a consultant to keep guarantee that the companies' proposed rates were realistic.

Several weeks of discussion followed before the two firms agreed on Marlarkey Taylor, which claims to be "the oldest consulting firm specializing in the field of cable television."

Selectmen Susan Poore and Edward Harris, who voted against hiring a consultant in a three-to-two vote two months ago, Monday night emphasized that they still oppose the idea.

Poore maintained that the added cost of hiring the consultant to the company that wins the license will eventually be passed along to the town's cable television consumers.

But Abramson replied that he is "not totally sympathetic" to townspeople who want to hurry along the selectmen's decision and are "impatient because they have had to wait four or five months."

"They would be the same ones who would complain if the (licensed company's) rates doubled or tripled a year or two from now," he explained.

Junction Interchange More Important

The selectmen would like to see a new interchange in the Lowell Junction area completed before work on upgrading the River Road interchange is started, the board said last week.

The state last March pleased town officials by ranking the new Lowell Junction interchange second, and the River Road work third, on its list of priorities for improving access to Interstate 93.

Topping the state's list was upgrading the I-95, Route 128/I-93 interchange in Woburn.

However, Selectman Edward Harris said last week he had heard it rumored that the state has had a change of heart and now plans to complete work on River Road before undertaking the Lowell Junction interchange.

The board agreed with Harris that they should encourage the state to give higher priority to the new interchange. "At least River Road has half a road," Harris pointed out. "Lowell Junction has nothing."

The selectman said that industries in the area, including the new Instrumentation Labs, which is slated to move into the area, are counting on an improved interchange.

Chairman James Abramson suggested the board write to the state, emphasizing that "our first priority is Lowell Junction, but that we are not unhappy to see them working on River Road, which is our second priority."

Harris volunteered to write the letter to authorities in the state Department of Public Works, and Monday night it was approved by the board.

Selectman Susan Poore theorized that it might be "easier" for the state to begin working on River Road, because some work has already been accomplished there.

Selectman Norma Gammon added that it is also likely that industries in West Andover Industrial Tech Park, are pressuring the state to complete the River Road interchange.

Abramson therefore recommended that industries in the Lowell Junction area should also "push" the state, and asked Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark to relay that thought to Dr. Lawrence Spiegel, chairman of the Development and Industrial Commission.

Selectman Harris expressed some fear that the state might run out of money for Andover's projects by the time the Route 128/I-93 interchange is finished at an estimated cost of $26,520,000.

The Back Burner Again?

Andover selectmen are properly disturbed at the prospect of the Lowell Junction interchange off Route 93 getting pushed back in priority by the state.

With promises of attention to a serious problem over the past 25 years fresh in mind, it seems almost impossible to believe that once again the importance of providing some relief to this particular area of town is being ignored.

There have been studies conducted at the state and federal level indicating a need for the Lowell Junction connector — a road which would facilitate entrance into a most lucrative industrial park in view of jobs provided and tax revenues produced.

Instead, the state has indicated that an improved interchange at Routes 128 and 93 takes precedence, with the expansion of the River Road-Route 93 interchange second. The Lowell Junction problem would be addressed third.

While there has been and will continue to be industrial expansion in the West Andover Industrial Park, there is already at least access to the area through a half interchange.

And, while there may be a few neighbors disturbed by some traffic in the River Road area, the problems can't be compared to what the people of Ballardvale and Lowell Junction have put up with for over a decade.

Andover's attempts to get an access road into the Lowell Junction industrial area date back to the construction of Route 93. About 25 years ago local officials appealed to state and federal authorities to consider placing some type of road into the area from the expressway.

At the time, those in charge of the highway construction had at least some justification in rejecting the proposal, since there was no sign of industrial development in the area, despite it being zoned for such.

But much has changed since then, particularly in the last 10-15 years.

Gillette Co. was the forerunner of considerable industrial development in that particular section of Andover, with some additional construction in the Wilmington area.

The area is now at a point where the land is either entirely developed or under option for future industrial expansion by firms in the area.

Still, the state authorities continue to study the need for an access road.

And, still, the residents of Ballardvale bear up under the strains of commuter and truck traffic in and out of the industrial area over streets more suited for the carriage trade.

Before his inaugural two years ago, Gov. Edward King visited the area for a groundbreaking ceremony and promised attention to the needs of the industrial park as far as access was concerned. Several months later he reiterated his desire to assist in the problem before the annual Andover Chamber of Commerce dinner.

Yet, two years later, relief is no closer to coming. Local officials, including the industrial development commission, continue to press for the access road, but their pleas apparently keep falling on deaf ears.

It is difficult to understand how a project of such importance to both the town and the state can be kept on the back burner for so long.

Hopefully, the state will put priorities in the right order and move the Lowell Junction connector up top where it rightfully belongs.

Bush Conveyed An At Home Feeling

By Robert E. Finneran

For all his visits back to the 'old school,' George Bush seemed most at home last Saturday morning as Phillips Academy presented its distinguished alumnus with the Fuess Award.

The vice president-elect has been back to the campus on several occasions since his graduation in 1942. He has been a trustee, his son graduated and Bush visited here a few years ago as the U. S. delegate to the U.N. and delivered the principal address to the annual Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce meeting.

But, last Saturday seemed different.

To the 2,600 gathered in Case Cage, he conveyed a feeling of warmth as he accepted the school's highest honor for public service and named for Clause M. Fuess who was headmaster when Bush was a student.

And, the feeling transcended to the audience, both in the cage, at the reception which followed and in his meeting with the senior class for a box lunch which concluded his three-hour visit to Andover.

It was Bush, his wife Barbara and, Howie Lebowitz, of Andover, president of the student body, who put everyone at ease, despite the omnipresence of secret service personnel with wires from their ears talking through sleeves to others including some Andover police in plain clothes recruited to the security force for the day.

Lebowitz gave the impression he could well follow Bush's public service career with his introduction. He even caused the vice president-elect to flinch a bit as he reminded him of a faculty member's observation that George did not display a quality of neatness while at the academy. The commentary had followed a similar observation by Bush's father.

Following his remarks, which began in a lighthearted fashion then turned serious as he advised students on the virtues of public service and self-sacrifice, Bush greeted hundreds in a reception line at the old P.A. gym.

While the surroundings were definitely institutional, the feeling was like being in the living room of a private residence, as he and his wife, Barbara, exchanged greetings with old friends, faculty, and townspeople such as:

Mel Weiner and Warren Lewis shaking hands with their old classmates, soon to be second in command of the nation.

Or, Selectman Ed Harris and Harry Axelrod, whose middle initials could be GOP, exchanging greetings and wishing Bush well as the Republicans assume command.

In contrast, Jim Doherty, head of the Andover Democratic town committee, doffing his affiliation and, as town moderator, suggesting Bush stop by an Andover town meeting, and Bush agreeing it sounded like a nice idea.

Or Nick Rizzo, saying hello, no doubt as head of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce and not as a top fund raiser for the Democratic party.

Selectman Susan Poore clicking pictures of her son with the vice president-elect and Lawrence Mayor Lefebvre doing likewise. Andover Fire Chief Bill Downs also a practitioner of the Instamatic.

Deke DiClemente PA faculty member chatting with his former student and soccer player.

Bush summed up his feelings and adequately described the event of the day when he said to me passing through, "It's been a wonderful day. A nice mix of people and so many from the town taking time to stop by and say hello."

Or as a faculty member said to his wife as they went out into the snow and cold of Saturday, "It's been a fun morning."

You will also want to check the bulletin you'll be receiving in the mail listing all the courses sponsored by the Community Services Department. Some of the courses may have a course fee even for senior citizens, necessitated by Proposition 2½. Such fees are payable in advance and will require registration in person.

Get your tickets for the Valentine Party chicken dinner to be held at The Haven, Thursday, Feb. 12, at noon. Cost is $3, but it will be delicious! And fun, too.

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Cuba's jet-setting emissary fails to heal Iran-Iraq rift

By JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Cuban strongman Fidel Castro has been trying to play the role of an international peacemaker, but he'd prefer that no one know about it. It's not that he's modest. He simply has bungled his peace missions.

First, Castro attempted to mediate the war between Iran and Iraq. He sent his foreign minister, Isidore Malmierca, on a Kissinger-style shuttle-diplomacy mission to bring peace in the desert war.

All that Malmierca has gained is a bad case of jet lag from flying back and forth. Of course, there are no direct flights between the two warring nations. So every time Castro's peacemaker negotiates, he has to fly from one country to the other via Rome. The assignment has made him something of a jet-setter.

No one has bothered to explain to Malmierca that the leaders of Iran and Iraq don't trust him. They figure, quite logically, that he's an agent of the Kremlin.

Castro's other attempt to play the mediator has been even less productive. The Cuban premier fancied that he was the man to smooth things out between the Afghans and their Russian occupiers.

That would be a pretty tall order for anyone. But for Castro, it was ridiculous.

He may insist that he's a leader of the unaligned nations, but the Afghans aren't about to buy that bill of goods.

According to intelligence sources, there are Cuban military advisers in Afghanistan, and they aren't there waving olive branches. They are attached to the Soviet army.

TURBULENT TRANSITION: We were promised a smooth transition as the government passes from Jimmy Carter to Ronald Reagan. But the transfer of power has encountered some turbulence at the State Department.

Reagan's men prepared a hit list of ambassadors who will be discharged immediately after the inauguration. Near the top of the list is Robert White, the able ambassador to El Salvador. He has already locked horns with the people who plan to fire him.

Reagan's choice for United Nations ambassador, Jeane Kirkpatrick, has also been feuding with the head of the human rights bureau, Patt Derian.

Meanwhile, the Carter people have circulated a memo to all assistant secretaries and bureau directors. It was intended for their eyes only, but we've seen a copy.

The memo instructs the departing Democrats to keep certain sensitive documents out of the hands of the incoming Republicans. Classified and restricted materials are supposed to be cleared with the State Department executive secretariat.

The same goes for information that is circulating in the State Department but which originated in another agency. States the memo:

"When a transition team member requests access to a restricted document originating in a third agency, you must have the approval of (the executive secretariat) before showing such a document to a transition team member."

In other words, the Carter people can withhold any sensitive information from the Reagan people — at least until Jan. 20.

WATCH ON WASTE: The accounting books at the Treasury Department reveal that over $90 million has been stolen by forgers who have falsely endorsed government checks made out to others.

Thousands of forgery cases will never be resolved because the long process of investigation can't be completed by the Secret Service or other Treasury agents.

Our sources at Treasury say the vast majority of bad checks and forged payments are stolen from the Social Security system. The problem could be eliminated by a mandatory system of direct deposits to the bank accounts of Social Security recipients.

CARTER CRITICS: Even some of President Carter's strongest supporters have expressed doubts about the way he handled U.S. foreign policy. One top official who has been critical behind closed doors is none other than Secretary of State Edmund Muskie. According to sources close to Muskie, he privately feels that U.S. policy under Carter wasn't forceful enough — especially in dealing with Iran.

EXPENSIVE CEREMONY: Within a month, the projected cost of President-elect Ronald Reagan's inauguration has inflated almost as fast as the guest list. Just a month ago, the tab was estimated at $6 million, and 40,000 guests were expected to attend various events. Now, according to internal memos we've seen, as many as 72,000 might be invited to the nine inaugural balls. And the tab for the whole shebang is expected to surpass $8 million. We should add that the inaugural is paid for completely by private contributions.

HISTORIC ACCOMPLISHMENT: Rep. Joe Skeen of New Mexico is only the third person in the history of the United States to take a seat in Congress because of a write-in vote. He is a dyed-in-the-wool Republican.

Gymnasts Lose To Methuen

In a dual meet with Methuen last week, Andover gymnasts were defeated despite some excellent performances. The girls took three of four events but were edged out in their opener 92.3 - 88. The boys lost their second meet in as many starts with the final score 91.7 - 78.4. Photos clockwise from upper left: Cyndy Luby and Mary Wermers cheer on teammate; Steve Stabile (who took first in the floor exercise and second in vaulting) painfully signals to judges after high bar performance; Brian Peters performs on the side horse; Kathy Todt goes through her routine on the balance beam.

Champions Struggle To Tie Andover

By Cynthia Surret

The Andover High School hockey team put forth its finest performance of the year against league champion Chelmsford last week. They played three periods of solid hockey and led 4-2 with less than five minutes to play in the game. Then two costly penalties were called on Andover, and unfortunately, the Lions took advantage of both—the game ended in a 4-4 tie.

Andover attacked Chelmsford continuously in the first period, constantly changing their forechecking pattern to put pressure on the Lions. The score at the end of the first period was 1-1, Andover outshooting Chelmsford 12-5. The lone Andover goal in the first period was scored on a power play by Jim Derby, from a Craig Hyslip feed.

Andover played one of their strongest second periods of the year as they came out flying, and again outshot the Lions by a margin of 10-6. Goals by Dave Deloury and co-captain Wayne Merola put Andover ahead 3-1 after two periods of play. It was apparent by the Warriors' enthusiasm that they were out to prove to themselves that they were a better team than the one which had floundered against Methuen just one game earlier.

In the third period, Andover had its first letdown of the game at the four-minute mark, allowing Chelmsford to get in with one goal—3-2. Two minutes later, Andover answered with a Craig Hyslip goal—assisted by Wayne Merola and Bobby Leber.

The score remained 4-2 until, with about five minutes left to play, the first of two interference penalties was called. Chelmsford quickly took advantage and scored on the power play; then, about 40 seconds later, a second penalty was called and Chelmsford scored again, tying the game at four.

Andover played a sharp, organized game, with a lot of intensity. If they can sustain this level of play, they will be able to give any team in the league a tough game. The solid two-way hockey of the line of Tom Fabiano, J.J. Downey and John Morris was one of the reasons for Andover's strong attack. Mike Walsh contributed another outstanding game on defense. The offense was led by Craig Hyslip, with one goal and two assists. Andover's season record now stands at 2-4-2.

Koch League Season Opens

The Andover Bill Koch Youth Ski League members participated in their first district race at the Concord Country Club, Concord, on Saturday, Jan. 3. Despite the minimal snow cover (some bare ground) the district, feeling the deprivation of one skiless season, decided that the show must go on.

In the Class V boys division (under age 9), Jamie Humber of Salem Street took tenth place, while Michael Costello of Vine Street and Gerald Pagliuca received participation ribbons. For the 2.5 kilometer course, Joel Lee Pagliuca and her brother, Jeffrey, also received participation ribbons in the Class IV (10 and 11 year olds) 2.5 k. course.

The club is looking forward to their next district race at Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School in Sudbury on Saturday, Jan. 17 at 11 a.m. Registration for the race begins at 9:30 a.m.

The Andover club, headed by G. Warren Patterson, (Pat), holds its practice sessions under lights at Steve Duffy's Rolling Green Ski Touring Center every Friday evening from 7 to 9 p.m. Steve is always on hand in his rental shop to help all beginners and veterans get outfitted with the proper skis, poles, shoe, waxes, etc.

All Andover area youngsters, aged 13 and under, who are interested in Nordic skiing (beginner, racer, ski jumper) are welcome to attend the Friday evening sessions or call Pat Patterson of Cheever Circle for more information on the league.

Boat Course

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 303, offers to the public their basic boating course at Wilmington High School starting at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 27. Advance registrations will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 12 at Wilmington High School. The basic sailing course will be given this year on Wednesday, Jan. 28, starting at 7 p.m. at the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational High School. Both courses last approximately 10 weeks. There is no charge for the course, but a small fee is charged for the text.

West Parish Stays Undefeated

By Rich Harrison

West Parish A continued as the only undefeated team in the Andover Church Basketball League Intermediate Gold Division, while outstanding individual efforts by Christ Bartley and Beau Jones powered once-beaten St. Augustine A and Christ Church A to victories in last week's four-game slate at the West Junior High gym.

West A trimmed St. Robert's A, 39-16. St. Augustine A belted St. Augustine B, 43-24, and Christ A pulled away from St. Augustine C, 34-15.

The most exciting game of the evening, meanwhile, saw St. Augustine D nudge Temple Emanuel 22-20.

St. Augustine D, 22-20

St. Augustine D pulled ahead 8-2 in the first period, but spent the rest of the night fighting off Temple Emanuel which closed to 16-13 at halftime and trailed only 20-18 after three periods.

The fourth quarter was a defensive standoff, with Scott Wallace netting the game-winning bucket to offset a Mitch Levine fieldgoal for Temple Emanuel.

Paul Sheedy paced the balanced St. Augustine D effort with 6 points, quick Chris Poor and Wallace added 5 points each, John Moosa pocketed 4 and Ron Peck had a first period bucket.

Also playing well for the victors were Walt Radulski, Brian Merritt, Tom Morton and Todd Morton.

For Temple, once again minus the services of high-scoring Adam Liberman, Mitch Levine hooped 8 points, Myles Greenberg 4, Paul Keller 4 and Eric Shenker 4.

Defensive stalwarts included Marci Lebowitz, Michelle Karas, Missy Labell and Julie Witover.

West Parish A, 39-16

Eight players scored points for West Parish A, as the unbeaten division pacesetters led 13-6, 21-6 and 33-12 at the first three quarter breaks against St. Robert's A.

Tim Boudreau and Rob DiTroia ignited the balanced attack with 8 points each, while Robbie Barnard netted 6, Larry Aiello 5, Steve Gemmell 4, Chris Abell 4, Scott Kelly 2 and Leo Gravell 2.

Gemmell and Aiello were also strong off the boards, while Boudreau and Barnard passed out a number of assists.

Outside sharpshooter Scott White was game-high for St. Robert's A with 10 points, including four long bombs, while single fieldgoals were added by Bobby Pothier, Charlie Sheehan and Dave Cox.

Dave McDonough, Billy Dutton and Mike Convey were other notables for St. Robert's, which played without Jeff Smith, Steve Rockwell and Mike Autiello.

Christ A, 34-15

Clinging to a slender 20-15 advantage after three periods, Christ A escaped on a 14-0 fourth quarter tear to beat St. Augustine C going away.

Beau Jones, who was game-high marksman with 14 points, led the last period surge with six, while tall Doug Rotundi chipped in four of his 6 points.

Chris Scott and Andy Frost fired through 4 points apiece for C-C, while single baskets were pocketed by Keith Dauber, Billy Earnshaw and Mark Polakow.

Robbie Carpentier dished off several pretty passes for the winners, while Chris Graff and Gretchen Suchodolski also played well.

Joe Hart was limited to just 6 points for St. Augustine C, Paul Zahornasky and John Morrow tossed in 4 each, and Frank Odum swished a second quarter foul shot.

Morrow saw limited action when he got in early foul trouble, a fact that hindered the St. Augustine effort.

Billy Scanlon and Matt Dufresne were other St. Augustine leaders.

Bantams Prep For Trip

The Andover Bantam A hockey team continues to drive toward its goal on and off the ice in preparation for their annual trip to Toronto and Oshawa, Canada, during the February school vacation. During the past month, the Bantams conducted a door-to-door canvas of the town in an effort to help raise funds for the trip. Once again, the people of Andover were very responsive to the cause. For this, the Bantam contingent of players and coaches wish to thank the townspeople who contributed to the drive.

For those who missed the canvas and would like to make a contribution, checks should be made payable to the A.H.A. Send donations to The Bantam Trip, P.O. Box 167, Andover, MA 01810.

The Bantams will depart from Merrimack College on Sunday morning, Feb. 15. The first major stop of the trip will be Niagara Falls, if time permits. Once in Canada, the club will play a series of five games against teams from Toronto and Oshawa during the six-day stay. In addition to hockey, the team will make visits to the Hockey Hall of Fame, the CN Tower

West B, Christ Church On Top

By Rick Harrison

West Parish B and Christ Church C remained undefeated, while West Parish C and St. Robert's D won their first games of the season, highlighting last week's six-game Andover Church Basketball League Intermediate Blue Division slate at the West Junior High, West Elementary and South School gyms.

The victories by West C and St. Robert's D means that all 13 Blue Division teams have now won at least one game.

West B slugged St. Augustine E, 40-1, Christ C nudged St. Robert's F, 18-16, West C nipped Ballardvale United B, 18-17, St. Robert's D trimmed Ballardvale United A, 12-7, St. Robert's E edged St. Augustine

F, 15-13, and South belted Christ Church B, 32-4.

The big showdown this week featured South against St. Robert's C, with both teams entering the game with just one loss.

West Parish C, 18-17

Quick guard Mike DiMeo sparked West C to its initial triumph, pumping through 14 points to key the exciting victory over Ballardvale B.

West Parish took a 6-2 halftime lead, as DiMeo tossed through four points and John Hess added a bucket, but Scott Jangro's six third quarter points helped BU tie the contest 12-12 entering the fourth period.

DiMeo collected all six West C markers in the final stanza to preserve the win.

Mike Ouellette chipped in a fieldgoal for West Parish, while other strong efforts came from Kurt Nickerson, Kyle Marcella, Sean Dyer and Jeff Patrakis.

Jangro led five BU players into the scoring column with 7 points, John Bird netted 4, Andy Burke 2, Dave Bean 2 and Bobby Nutter 2.

St. Robert's D, 12-7

St. Robert's D outscored Ballardvale United A 11-0 in the first and third periods combined, then held off a fourth quarter United rally to chalk up its victory at West Junior High.

Rick Tesman paced the winners' offense with 6 points, Erik Green contributed 4, and free throws were swished by Tracy Danner and Dennis Sampson.

Other notables for St. Robert's were Jim Murphy, Jennifer Morris and Tommy Sheehan.

Scott Sarcione did the bulk of the damage for BU, collecting 6 points, while Dave Rehe pocketed a second period free throw.

Mike Hulsey and Steve Sarcione added fine floor games for BU.

West Parish B, 40-1

Eight different players entered the scoring act for unbeaten West B, which has won 15 of its last 16 starts over a two-year period.

Mike Lane, who tossed in all six West B points during the second quarter, finished the contest with 8 points to share game-high scoring honors with teammates Andy Lee and Matt Geiger.

Billy O'Brien was next in line with 6 points, Mark Geiger fired in 4, and single buckets were contributed by Kurt Burzlaff, Robbie Thompson and Jeff Larsen.

Burzlaff did another fine job off the boards, pulling down numerous rebounds, while Lee and Lane handed out several assists each.

Mark Russell's second period free throw proved to be the only offense St. Augustine E could muster, but turning in solid performances for the young team were Steve

St. Augustine A, 43-24

Divisional scoring leader Chris Bartley (76 points) enjoyed an exceptional night for St. Augustine A, pouring through a single-game season high 27 points to power this triumph over St. Augustine B.

Bartley collected just five points in the first half, when the A-squad constructed a 17-10 lead, but Chris pumped through 22 points in the second half including 14 during the third quarter when an 18-6 outburst settled the issue.

Tim Scanlon chipped in 7 points for the victors, while Mike Powers notched 3, Scott McAllister 2, Paul Davies 2 and Kevin Walsh 2.

Joe Hurley and Scott Kirwin played solid defensive games.

Maura Dunn sparked the answering fire for the B-team with 8 points, Scott Grant and Mike Moriarty hooped 6 each, Drew Dunn 2 and Paul Sapienza 2.

in Toronto, the Toronto City Hall, the Ontario Science Center, the Bloorview Children's Hospital, as well as other historic sites.

The Bantams have made significant progress since the season began. After struggling through a 4-8-4 record during September and October, the team really began to roll in November. Since Nov. 1, the team has run up a record of 17 wins and 5 losses. The streak includes a 9 game winning streak and 15 wins in their last 17 starts. This brings the overall season record to 21 wins, 13 losses, and 4 ties.

Contributing to the team's success has been a balanced scoring attack of the offense, steady defensive play, and solid goaltending.

Quebec Falls To Andover

The Andover High boys basketball team hosted the Billings High School of Chateauguay, Quebec last week and defeated the Canadian team 66-34. Despite presenting a well-balanced team, and having a height advantage, the Canadians could not match Andover's excellent shooting. The win runs the Warriors record to 10-0. game which included many rebounds for the Leopards.

Lions 20 - Tigers 16

The fast improving Lions defeated the Tigers by a 20-16 score. Steve Mencis scored a fast six points in the first period to help the Lions race off to a 12-5 lead. Steve Napolitano had several steals in the first half and Barry Feingold played good defense for the Lions. Doug Howes of the Tigers played aggressive defense for the Tigers and Lonnie Kalfelz was the floor leader. Joshua Yezerski scored two points in the first period for the Lions as did Mike Biondo for the Tigers.

Steve Mencis got hot again in the third period as he scored four points as the Lions improved a 12-7 half time lead to an 18-9 third period lead. In the fourth period the Tigers came roaring back with David Seaman scoring four, Steve Howes getting two and Lonnie Kalfelz dropping in a foul shot to make this a close game at the end.

Panthers 38 - Bears 12

The many talented Panthers scored a 38-12 victory over the Bears for their second straight win of the year. Pat Kelly, with six, and Barry Connors, with four, led the way to a 14-5 first period lead. Ryan O'Leary got two and Kevin Foley got three for the Bears in the first period.

Joe Gillian scored four points and Derek Brucato played strong defense. The second period, the Panthers left the floor with a 26-7 halftime lead. Rebounding leaders for the Bears were Ryan O'Leary and John Dorsey.

In the third period, Jeremy Kaplan and Haron Boutin played such tough defense that the Panthers were unable to score one single point.

The Panthers took over again in the fourth period with Barry Connors getting six and Kurt Brucato scoring four. Tricia Doyle got most of the rebounds in the last period.

The 38 points scored by the defending champs is one of the highest total scored by one team in the junior division in the last four years.

sponsors the Andover Cup Invitational PeeWee Tournament each year. Andover won the initial tournament in 1978, but Chelmsford won in 1979, and North Andover won in 1980. Andover, Brunswick, Concord and North Andover were the 1981 contestants. Andover defeated Brunswick 4-0, and Concord downed North Andover 2-0 in Saturday afternoon pairings to set up the Sunday morning finale. Andover won 4-0 in a hard fought game.

Andover 4 - Brunswick 0

Goalie Kenny Young recorded the shutout on Saturday, stopping everything Brunswick shot at him while his teammates were scoring four goals. It took Andover only nine seconds to get on the board. Defenseman Matt Shine fed wing David Bartle in the slot. David's shot was turned away, but the Brunswick goalie kicked the rebound out front where Cort Pomeroy pounced on it for the score. Two minutes later, Georgie Heseltine made it 2-0 Andover when he converted a feed from Paul Gilmartin. The game settled down some at that point, with Andover holding a decided edge in play. Aggressive forechecking by Jeff McNeil, Timmy

Donovan and David Young not only kept Brunswick bottled up but resulted in several good scoring bids by the line. When Brunswick did break out, Andover defensemen Earl Abdoo, Jamie O'Brien, Shannon McCabe, and David Curtis held the Mainers in check. Georgie Heseltine scored Andover's third goal three minutes into the second period on a nice solo effort.

His score was followed quickly by some excellent saves by the Brunswick goalie on shots by Mosa Kaleel and Mark Neaves. Stevie Donovan scored Andover's fourth and final goal at the 5:11 mark of the third period when he knocked in the rebound of Georgie Heseltine's shot. Andover's penalty killers, led by Matt Shine and Paul Gilmartin, did a good job late in the game, nullifying three penalties, one a two man short situation. Andover then sat back and watched the Concord-North Andover contest which would determine their opposition in the championship game.

Andover 4 - Concord, N.H. 0

Andover won the Cup on Sunday with a solid 4-0 win over a good Concord club. The victory was anchored by Greg Najjar's excellent work in the nets.

Mark Neaves scored Andover's first goal midway through the first period, slapping in the rebound of Stevie Donovan shot from a prone position. Paul Gilmartin set up Stevie's shot with a good pass from the left point. The goal came after Stevie Mark, and Georgie Heseltine, backed by Paul Gilmartin and Jamie O'Brien, kept the puck in the zone for nearly two minutes. The goal stood up nearly 10 minutes, as goalie Greg Najjar and Andover's defense, led by David Curtis, Tony Herling, Jamie O'Brien and Shannon McCabe turned Concord back continually. Mosa Kaleel finally made it 2-0 Andover with 1:06 left in the middle period when he

Wins Award

Daddy's Junky Music Stores of Salem, Manchester, and Portsmouth, N.H. has been named recipient of a 1980 Hatch Award in the category of Television Retail. Sponsored by the Ad Club of Greater Boston, the Hatch Awards recognize what the Ad Club considers to be "creative excellence in New England advertising."

The commercial, based on the Daddy's theme song (written by Wayne Ulaky of Words and Music) depicts "Guido and the Dirtballs" singing about why they shop at Daddy's. The final frames show the band driving away in a '57 Chevy Bel Air convertible.

Judged by representatives of three New York City advertising firms, the ad won a merit award, tying with Fayva shoe stores and Jordan Marsh department stores.

and has only recently been expanded to include smaller communities like Andover.

Obtaining CARD bonding will depend, at least in part, upon public support, Spiegel indicated: "Citizen participation is the important thing." The planning board will hold a public hearing on the proposed Shawsheen district, giving townspeople a chance to "kick it around and hear all sides," he said.

Both the planning board and selectmen must approve the proposed CARD district before it is submitted to the state department of community development, he explained.

If Shawsheen Square is designated a CARD district, both the Massachusetts Industrial Finance authority (MIFA) and the Andover IDFA will be notified, and the local finance authority will deal with Andover businesses, Spiegel said.

Once the application process is complete for Shawsheen, it will begin all over again for Ballardvale and the central business district — the other two areas Spiegel hopes to see designated CARD districts. The state does not limit the number of areas that can be proposed at one time, but the chairman said he felt it would be "too confusing" to propose all three areas at once.

headmaster. The school was established during the American Revolution, in 1778, and committed by its Constitution to "be ever equally opened to Youth, of requisite qualifications, from every quarter." Andover now draws students from every part of the United States and 21 foreign countries, providing financial aid for 34 percent of its student body of 1200 boys and girls. Under John Mason Kemper's headmastership (1948-71) Andover led in the establishment of the Advanced Placement Program for schools and colleges, and the ABC (A Better Chance) Program in independent schools. Among Headmaster Sizer's achievements are the establishment of coeducation, by merger with adjacent Abbot Academy in 1973, the raising of $52 million at the time of its 200th birthday, mostly for students scholarships and faculty salaries, and the establishment of the Short Term Institutes at Andover and the (MS)2 Program, Math and Science for Minority Students, to supplement public high school education programs.

Driving In Fog

While fog may be an effective backdrop for a mystery story, it is not a good setting in which to drive.

There is no particular season for the appearance of fog. It can occur anytime, anywhere throughout the country.

Triple-A advises motorists not to drive in fog conditions unless it is absolutely necessary. If you must drive, reduce speed drastically, slow down says, David J. Christensen, Executive Vice President of the local AAA Club. Ten to fifteen miles per hour should be the maximum speed in heavy fog.

Turn headlights on to low beam (not parking lights) so that other vehicles can see you. Never use high beams as the beams reflect off the fog making it more difficult to see. Use your windshield wipers. Listen to the radio weather reports.

Christensen also recommends you drive so you can see the right edge of the road. It is safer than following the center yellow or white line. Avoid passing cars and changing lanes.

Be aware of slower-moving vehicles ahead and unlighted parked vehicles. Stay alert at all times.

If the fog becomes too dense pull off the road on the right shoulder as far as possible and out of traffic. Keep your lights on and, if you have them, your emergency flasher lights.

Clearing conditions do not necessarily mean that it is safe to resume normal speed. Often, fog banks can occur intermittently along the road and without warning. Continue to drive in the slow lane and at reduced speed until you are absolutely sure the fog has lifted. You may get to your destination a little later than planned, but chances are you will get there safely.

Larry's Service + Wheel Alignment Specialists

If the wheels on your automobile are not aligned properly, they drag and rob you of precious mileage. Wise motorists will have their car's front end aligned at least once a year by a specialist. Make your appointment now with Larry's Service, 665 Haverhill Street in Lawrence, where special equipment and factory trained men do the job right.

To assure exact results, Larry's Service uses the John Bean Acraliner, especially made for accuracy in wheel alignment. Skilled technicians with full qualification and experience operate this complex piece of equipment. The John Bean Acraliner enables them to get complete accuracy with a light beam. Optical measurements from two wheel-mounted precision projectors check both front and rear wheels.

Projections on a screen measure caster camber, toe-in, toe-out turns and K.P.I. Then Larry's experts make the necessary adjustments to align your vehicle perfectly. Nothing is left to guesswork or chance. It is aligned perfectly, saving wear and tear on your tires — and improving gas mileage!

Larry's Service, an Amoco station, has been owned and operated by Laurent Levasseur for over 30 years. Along with Emile Levasseur, Emile Jr. and Louis Janowski, he offers the public the finest in all types of repair work on cars and trucks.

They do tune-ups on all makes and models, brake work, exhaust work, just about any work your vehicle needs to keep it running smoothly and to give you maximum fuel efficiency.

Wheel alignment plays a big part in operation of your car. When wheels go out of alignment, turning becomes difficult, the car won't roll and tires wear out rapidly. So don't take chances on this important phase of automotive car care. See the experts at Larry's Service soon.

For an appointment for service work or wheel alignment, drive in any time from 7 A.M. to 6 P.M. or Saturdays till noon, at 665 Haverhill Street, Lawrence, or Tel 687-9447.

RESIDENTIAL HOME AS INVESTMENT

In the past, any real estate investor who eyed the purchase of income-producing property would forsake the single-family home and aim for the apartment house. The reason being that the cash flow is always larger with multi-family dwellings in relation to the amount of dollars invested.

But this view is changing today and the single-family home is growing more and more popular as an investment property, especially for the beginning investor. For one thing, there are a lot more of them on the market than apartment houses. They are easier to get into and out of so the investment money is somewhat more liquid.

In some ways, it can be compared with the investment of raw land in that the main profit is made when the property is sold. If the residential homes are selected carefully in a steady growth area, the appreciation can be very lucrative. Holding costs can be covered by rental income. Also there is an excellent tax shelter offered by deducting depreciation from your income which can allow you to reduce the taxes on other income.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Conversion To Apartments Near For Tyer Rubber Plant

The developers who plan to convert the former Tyer Rubber factory on Railroad Street into elderly housing presented a progress report to the selectmen Monday night, and the board was favorably impressed with their plans.

Developers P. Leo Corcoran and John M. Corcoran told the board they have received full Section Eight funding for Andover Commons, as the $9 million project will be called, from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

That funding will allow the developers to offer subsidized housing to individuals who earn between $10,500 and $11,000 per year, and couples who earn up to $13,000 per year.

The project is currently scheduled for completion by the fall of 1982, according to Leo Corcoran.

"The whole board agrees, there is no question that the town needs this type of housing," Selectmen Chairman James Abramson commented. "The waiting list for elderly housing in town is substantial — especially if it is partially subsidized."

Abramson noted that the location of the former factory building seems ideal for elderly housing because it is "only one or two blocks away from everything in town. The residents will be able to walk anywhere, so that cars won't be needed."

However, pointing out that traffic on Railroad Street is sometimes heavy, the chairman recommended that the developers work with the police department on a study of the traffic flow in the area.

It may prove desirable to make Railroad Street a one-way street, Abramson suggested.

Lori Comeau, project director for the developers, described the plans for the project to the selectmen, explaining that 149 one-bedroom units will be built in the former factory building, and 18 two-bedroom units.

Approximately 10 percent of the units will be designed to meet the needs of handicapped residents, she added.

The development will be landscaped to shield the railroad tracks and street from the residents' view, Comeau indicated.

Dividend

Directors of J. P. Stevens & Co., Inc. has declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share on the $7.50 par value common stock, payable Jan. 30, to shareowners of record at the close of business on Jan. 2.

Instead, tenants' rooms will overlook the Shawsheen River.

"We have the impression that this will be done right," Abramson said of the plans, while Selectman Norma Gammon added that the plans showed "a good use of the building."

The Corcorans appeared before the selectmen at the board's request. Leo Corcoran commented that the developers have received "very superior help from the town, right from the beginning. Everything has gone very smoothly."

The developers were granted a comprehensive permit, allowing the conversion of the Tyer Rubber building, by the Zoning Board of Appeals during 1979.
